In support of Lisa Barwise VIVA Systems

I attended Lisa's seminar 'Introduction of Systems' on Tuesday 12th January at the new VIVA Systems offices in College Gardens. I would like to report to fellow chapter members that this was a fascinating 90 minutes and an excellent introduction to what Lisa can offer the entrepreneur. She galloped through the salient points of the VIVA Systems model for running a successful, profitable and sustainable business with a lively and engaging presentation.

After watching Lisa in action I would have no reservation about recommending her to any client of my own, from the established entrepreneur to an early SME start-up. Her passion, conviction and commitment to her field shone through the presentation and I feel sure that carries through into her interaction with her own clients. Lisa is qualified in International Business and Languages with a major in International Marketing. Her passion and verve are clearly backed up years of both intense theory and extensive experience.

VIVA is all about systems and accountability. The most convincing aspect of Lisas introduction was the sense that this accountability starts with herself and thus translates into an absolute commitment to her clients.
